

Have You Heard the One . . .

By TERRY DAVENPORT

Jim Curtis of Daly City hands everyone a line. Although he writes comedy for a living, Curtis routinely tells people he's a plumber.

"Look at it this way," he explained. "If people don't know you're a comedy writer, they can think of you as the most humorous damn plumber they've ever run into."

According to Curtis, a lot of pressure is exerted against those who want to work in the field of comedy.

He said, "If a child is showing an interest in animals — putting a splint on little doggie's leg and so forth — parents think, 'Wow, my son the doctor.' And if a girl is deeply interested in doll's clothing, they think, 'She could be a clothing designer some day.'"

BUT CURTIS said he couldn't think of a parent in the world who would remark with pride, "Our kid is going to be a clown."

Curtis explained that many would-be comedians and comedy writers throw in the towel when they finish school and are thrust into the working world. If that doesn't do it, he said the service or marriage probably will break a person's spirit.

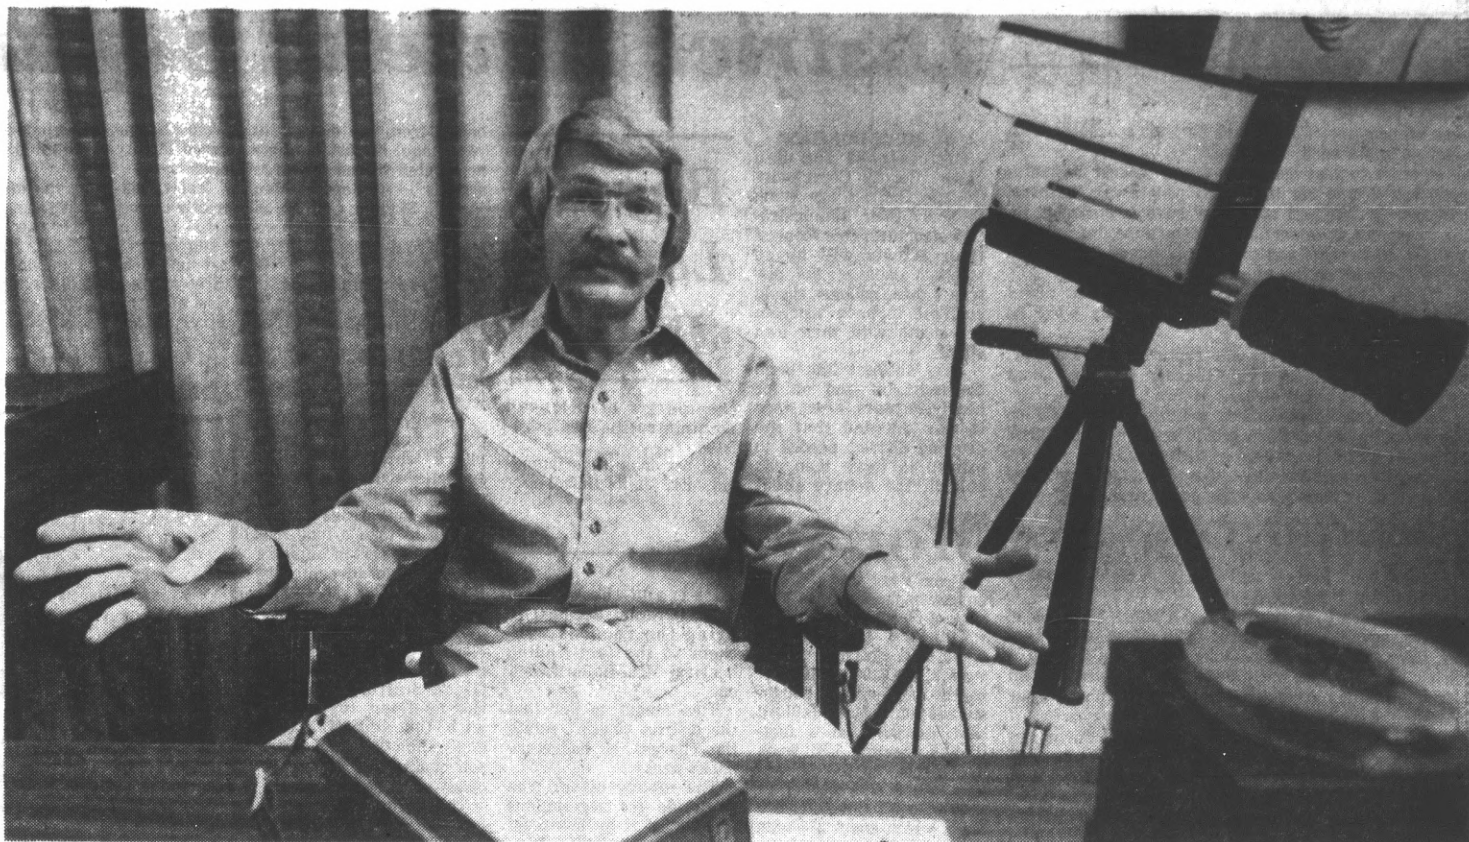

Somehow Curtis managed to ignore the advice of well-meaning relatives and followed through with his life-long ambition to write comedy. He opened a comedy writing agency in Philadelphia in 1967, quickly grew successful and continued to build the business after he moved to the Bay Area six years ago.

He's found that the rewards can be great. Curtis said the going rate for comedy writers is $100 to $300 per minute of delivery time of a finished script. During his best week, he made $8,500.

His company, Comedy Unlimited, is located in a comfortable house perched on a hill in Daly City's Crocker district.

He said the company is unique, because, in addition to writing funny speeches and nightclub acts, it trains its clients — at no extra charge — to deliver the lines. Their practice performances are videotaped so that clients can see themselves as others do.

CURTIS POINTED out that Comedy Unlimited is the only comedy writing group in San Mateo County. He claims the company also is the only comedy writing service that allows a client to read the script before paying the balance of the bill.

The reason the company can afford to do so, Curtis said, is that he has developed what he terms a "fool-proof" system for writing jokes tailored to individuals.

The system seems to work, for Curtis counts among his clients such political heavies as Gov. Jerry Brown and Lt. Gov. Mervyn Dymally, corporate conglomerates like Levi Strauss and IBM, and a number of stand-up comics, most of whom don't want to admit they need help writing jokes.

Some customers only want to break the ice. For example, Comedy Unlimited wrote this introduction for the campaigning Gov. Brown:

"Since Jerry Brown is so well known, it seems only fair to give equal time to some of the opposition . . . for example, last year, Ed Davis took a big step towards eliminating wasteful government spending. He resigned as police chief. Ken Maddy also has a different political philosophy from Jerry Brown. Jerry believes that in good government, 'less is more,' whereas Ken Maddy believes in good government — more or less."

COMEDY Unlimited was called in by a major maintenance company to write a speech for the chairman of the board. Curtis soon learned that all the employees were embarrassed about the janitorial image of their company.

"It was almost as if, when their children would ask, 'Daddy, what do you do?', they would visualize themselves cleaning toilets," Curtis explained.

The chairman of the board had the whole company in stitches when he told highly personal jokes about key employees and presented them with gold toilet plungers.

READY FOR ANYTHING

Jim Curtis of Comedy Unlimited in Daly City makes sure clients know how to deliver their funny routines before they walk out the door. His customers get to view their own videotaped performances.

Although he has been known to lower his fee for less prestigious clients, such as a newly-elected Rotary Club president who asks for help in writing an acceptance speech, Curtis charges most customers $300 per minute of delivery time.

Comedy Unlimited uses the same comedy writing system for all clients. First he invites the person to his office for an interview that is videotaped. After many

An Attempt to Avoid Athletic User Fees in DC

The Daly City Recreation Commission has requested that the city use $25,000 from its budget to run city athletic programs, rather than charge residents a fee.

Last month the commission adopted a fee schedule for use of the swimming pool and city recreation facilities and for participation in various cultural activities.

However, the commission did not take action on the recommendation to also charge residents for athletic programs. Instead, it has requested that the city pay the operational costs of most athletic programs.

The proposal was reviewed when the City Council met in a study session Monday night. Action on the request is expected to come at the regular council meeting next Monday.

Swimming fees have gone up to 60 cents for users 17 years of age and under and $1.25 for adults.

Facility rental is $10 an hour for large rooms and $7.50 an hour for smaller rooms.

The commission stopped short of charging a fee for athletic programs, including boys and girls baseball and basketball, high school slow pitch league, adult lob ball and baseball school for umpires.

Recreation Director Charles Vincent prepared a report for the council on the re-opening of the Westmoor swimming pool Aug. 14.

He said the modified hours are weekdays, 1 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. and Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights, 7 p.m. to 9:30 p.m.

Resident Roseann Emerson protested that the rate increase may mean Daly City families no longer can afford to use the pool.

"I don't think a family of four or six can afford those rates," she said.

She said that although she recognizes the need to raise rates because of Proposition 13 cutbacks, she said "we feel the pool rate raise to be unreasonable and unrealistic."

Another Volley Over Money Shot by AFT

The latest volley in the long contract negotiations between the Jefferson Union High School District and the district's American Federation of Teachers chapter was fired by the teachers Monday.

They charged the district with hiding $1 million in available funds it could use for pay and benefits increases.

Mrs. Marcy Dunne Ballard, the AFT president, said in a long, strongly-worded announcement Monday that the district had the $1 million during the past 11 months of negotiating, but hadn't said anything about it.

District Superintendent Floyd Gonella was on vacation this week and Assistant Superintendent Ernest Ribera was unavailable for comment on the latest charge, that the district "hid the monies all of last year and that they misled the public as to the truth of the financial status of the district . . ."

Mrs. Ballard in her statement laid the blame heavily on Gonella, who she claimed "can no longer effectively carry out public policy."

Gonella has said that the district's fiscal year surplus is estimated at $50,000, a bare minimum for contingencies, after $1.25 million was cut from the 1978-79

Westborough Tenants Win Suit

A $1.6 million out-of-court settlement has been recorded against the builders of Westborough Hills Condominium Association No. 4 in South San Francisco.

The settlement, signed by Presiding Superior Court Judge Walter P. Capaccioli, provides for the builders to pay full costs of repairs to homes.

Several residents four years ago initiated the legal action, claiming that fire and seismic safety work required by building codes was not done.

The suit represented a class action for the 100 owners of the units.

Defendants include Loews Corp., J.H. Snyder Co., L&S Mortgage Co., and several other firms and named individuals.

The defendants, without admitting liability, agreed to the settlement.

James L. Richmond, one of the plaintiff attorneys, called the settlement a "successful culmination of the first in a series of cases involving six other condominium associations."

Westborough Hills Condominium Association No. 4 is on Fairfax Way.

Assault Ruling Appeal

Jefferson Union High School District officials haven't heard the last of an assault case involving two district office secretaries.

James Abernathy, attorney for Willie Mae McClendon of San Francisco, said Friday he will seek an appeal for his client in Superior Court. Abernathy will challenge the school board's firing of Miss McClendon for allegedly assaulting another secretary in the district office, Jacqueline Colatto, on June 20.

This newspaper also has learned that a Daly City court officer signed a formal complaint on behalf of Mrs. Colatto, charging Miss McClendon with assault and battery and disturbing the peace. Although the complaint was signed Aug. 8, the day of the school board's public hearing on the case, it was not mentioned at the hearing. In fact, one of Abernathy's arguments was that Mrs. Colatto's protests carried no weight, since formal charges had not been made.

A trial date will be set when Miss McClendon is arraigned. If she loses the case, the maximum sentence she could receive would be imprisonment in the county jail for a year.

At the school board hearing, the council took no action on the matter. How-

Restaurant Permit On Agenda of DC Council

The fate of a fast-food restaurant proposed for a prime location in Daly City is scheduled to be decided next week.

In a study session Monday night, council members reviewed the application for a Church's Fried Chicken at the corner of Mission and School streets and heard from two residents who oppose it.

The Daly City Planning Commission last week decided that the proposed use of the corner lot could be detrimental to the neighborhood and recommended to the City Council that the use permit be denied.

Because it was the study session, the council took no action on the matter. However, it did hear from the applicant and residents.

Bill D'Amico, a representative of Dining of California, told the council his company's application came in "at a very tense time."

He noted that residents and the city have had a bad experience with another fast-food restaurant across the street.

In answer to concerns of residents living behind the proposed restaurant, Amico said the plans for Church's Fried Chicken had been redrawn to eliminate a drive-through window and to expand the dining room.

He said the hours of the restaurant also would be cut back.

D'Amico asked the council if "anything short of a planted park there" would satisfy residents living on Bruno Avenue, which is behind the property.

Peter McGuire, president of Dining of California, said Church's Fried Chicken would be the "nicest business" on Mission Street if the application were approved.

He also said it is "not fair" that this application be denied because of the poor reputation of a fast-food restaurant across the street.

Residents have complained, he said, that Church's Fried Chicken will attract students from Jefferson High School and that will result in a litter problem.

But, McGuire said, "The high school empties right into their front yard, regardless of Church's."

Jane Rothchild, chairman of the board of the San Francisco company which owns the land, said a gas station that was open 24 hours a day used to be on the property.

She said she visited several Church's restaurants and found they catered to families who ate on the premises and that they appeared to be clean operations.

The two residents who spoke against the application still were adamant that the restaurant would add to the traffic congestion in the area and that years of practice, Curtis said he knows exactly what questions to ask each individual.

In order to gear his routines to a specific audience, Curtis has to find out how many people will be there, their average age and what they have in common. He also considers it essential to determine his client's abilities and assets and the type of image that person wishes to convey to the audience.

"Your ability to satisfy any client is in direct proportion to that client's knowing exactly what he wants," Curtis explained.

After all the answers are captured on videotape, Curtis' writers come in to view the tape, then they go off to write jokes by themselves.

Most people think comedy writers always come up with jokes in uproarious, group sessions, but Curtis prefers his writers to create on their own. That way, he said, everyone gets credit — those who think up funny ideas as well as those who write good punch lines.

HE'S ALSO found that his writers have their own quirks about where and when they like to write.

"Some don't turn on until 11 or 12 at night, then they write till 4 a.m.," he noted.

Each comedy writer jots down about 30 pages of jokes per customer, then turns in 10 pages of the best lines. Curtis then boils those jokes down to a few pages of what he calls "dynamite" material. He writes them on note cards and arranges them — like a mass jigsaw puzzle on the floor — into a routine that flows easily.

In the 12 years he has run his agency, Curtis has learned that rank beginners are just as likely as seasoned professionals to come up with great jokes. Most are not in control of the creative process, he said, likening the usual comedian to a vessel where humorous ideas occasionally float to the surface.

He is, himself, hard pressed to come up with a joke on the spot. But Curtis considers it a blessing that he can't remember lines. That way, he doesn't run the risk of being accused of stealing jokes from other people.

Curtis has spent years analyzing the way jokes are written because, he said, "Frankly, I wanted to get my money's worth out of staff writers."

He has discovered that people with logical minds seem to do best at writing jokes. Many of his writers are mathematicians or computer programmers by profession.

Curtis said he believes that humor occurs when two or more items connect in the brain. To speed up the process, Curtis created a mechanical system of making up lists of fertile words and concepts and connecting them.

"IT SOUNDS like a puffy statement, but I swear some of the jokes write themselves," he said.

In fact, Curtis claims he can teach anybody with a good sense of humor to write an abundance of saleable jokes. He began teaching comedy writing because it was the only reliable way he could find good writers for his company. He regularly taps writers from the class that he teaches each fall.

Some of the current staff writers for Comedy Unlimited reside in San Mateo County, but Curtis won't reveal their names for fear that someone else might spirit them away.

He won't allow any of his writers to take on outside jobs while working for him. Nevertheless, a couple of prodigies often move on to bigger and better things every year.

Some become stand-up comedians. Others write television scripts. One, Jules Tasca, won praises for a funny play he wrote, "The Mind With a Dirty Man," which played at major theaters across the country.

As a group project, Comedy Unlimited also is writing a script for full-length motion picture under contract. The comedy will be shot on location in San Francisco.

such a restaurant's litter would be strewn all over the neighborhood.

Ernest Pezzola said he is worried that high school students will eat lunch there and then throw their garbage on neighboring lawns.

Even though the applicant said Church's Fried Chicken is not a fast-food restaurant, but rather a restaurant that emphasizes eating on the premises, Pezzola said most customers will take their food out.

"This place is not going to be any different than Kentucky Fried Chicken or Jack-in-the-Box across the street," he said.

Another resident, Conrad Pavellas, said residents are "fed up" with fast-food operations.

He said no matter how hard Church's Fried Chicken attempts to clean up its litter, they cannot effectively control the problem.

Council members asked that they be given the addresses of Church's restaurants in the Bay Area so they could visit them before voting on the use permit next week.

Councilman Al Teglia said he has heard the message "loud and clear" that residents are concerned about the problems the restaurant could create.

"You're going to get a litter situation there," he said, noting he also has a concern about traffic congestion in the area.

Officials of the San Mateo County Community College District are going to study their administrative structure. One focus of their efforts will be on whether each of the district's three colleges should continue to have separate presidents with their own staffs.

budget because of the passage of Proposition 13.

The AFT through last week had claimed there was a $272,000 surplus, based on its own budget studies. But Mrs. Ballard said Monday that a fact-finding meeting last week had turned up the $1 million, based on research of district AFT investigative team which spent 220 man hours recording all income and expenditures of the district general fund account and special reserve fund account and bond fund account.

Mrs. Ballard said she had discussed interfund transfers between these accounts for the past 10 years and invited Gonella to conduct his own investigation of these transfers if he didn't know they were going on.

ing, Abernathy portrayed Miss McClendon as a hard-working secretary who reacted automatically when Mrs. Colatto cursed and threatened her. He emphasized that Mrs. Colatto only was verbally reprimanded for swearing at Miss McClendon, whereas Miss McClendon was suspended for her role in the incident, which arose after Mrs. Colatto reportedly tried to prevent her from looking at her own personnel folder.

Mrs. Colatto and other district office employees testified that Mrs. Colatto was the innocent victim of an unprovoked assault, during which she was poked, shoved and had her clothing torn.

the merits of diffused administration has persisted.

A previous superintendent, Dr. Julio Bortolazzo, bolting from the district 10 years ago, in part because he wanted to run all three schools — College of San Mateo, Skyline College in San Bruno and Canada College in Redwood City — out of his San Mateo office. He didn't especially cotton to the notion of having a superintendent and three presidents.

He wanted to do it all. His trustees said no. He left.

Today, in the nervous, post-Proposition 13 atmosphere which has public agencies scurrying to find every dollar they can, some district authorities appear willing to take a long look back at the sort of administrative setup advocated by Bortolazzo, or something very much like it.

But it won't be easy. Earlier this month, the district's current chancellor, Glenn Smith, announced the decision to proceed with the administrative study, but then found himself unable to describe precisely what he was about.

The word he was searching for was "autonomy." After he found it, everyone in the trustees' meeting room at CSM chorled — but some of the laughter was restrained, because there is every indication that centralization is indeed a hidden agenda item of long-standing.

On May 11, Dr. David Mertes announced that he was leaving his post as president of CSM to go to Santa Barbara. At about the same time, Canada president Dr. J. William Wenrich was being considered for a position in Illinois.

Early this year, the district's director of planning, Dr. Clifford Denney, resigned from his job. So, as June 6 hove into view, three of the district's top five administrators were either on their way out or seemed to be.

It was at that point that the district, faced with a stable enrollment which could begin to show some decline for the first time and with finances shrinking, found itself in the position of being able to strongly consider dramatic change without a lot of personnel bloodletting.

Since it appeared that only one president, James Wyatt at Skyline, would remain at his school by the end of the summer, it seemed likely that Wyatt could be brought to the district office, assume Denney's old job and quietly end the business of distinct administrations at the three schools.

But it didn't work out that way. The key proved to be Wenrich. He didn't get the Illinois position.

For many years the name of Patti Parks Stolz was well known in this area.

Patti worked with the Daly City Community Chorus, arranged for volunteers to perform at charity affairs and Christmas programs.

Gradually she began combining musical programs with a fashion show of Gay Nineties costumes from her private collection.

Some time back Patti remarried, became Patti McClain and moved to Moraga, where she continued her singing and expanded her collection of vintage attire and the fashion shows gradually became more prominent her planning than the singing.

LOCALITIES will be delighted to learn that last Sunday the Patti McClain Museum of Vintage Fashion had its premiere opening in the Dinkelspiel House, a part of the Dunsmuir House and Gardens, Inc. of Oakland. The museum is open on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays from 11

Airport Commission Starts 'Van Pool,' Runway Work

A $1.3 million contract for repaving parts of San Francisco International Airport runways has been awarded to a South San Francisco firm.

Commissioners also approved a "van pool" program Tuesday which is designed to get airport workers out of private cars and into vans, thus reducing traffic congestion in San Mateo County.

They approved installation of runway identification lights to improve safety and withheld action on a proposed limit on expansion of small plane activity at the big field.

The paving contract was awarded to "L.M. Company, a Joint Venture," as lowest of three bidders. Lowrie Paving of South San Francisco is identified as the "L" in the joint venture and Minton Company of Mountain View as the "M."

The work is to include overlay and reconstruction of the south end of Runways 1-Right and 19-Left, adjacent to Bayshore Freeway and Millbrae Avenue, plus rebuilding a blast apron and raising the north end of the same runway extending toward the bay.

The paving is to take 45 calendar days and is expected to involve some shuffling of airport runway assignments for takeoffs and landings during the construction period.

A Lowrie spokesman said the work would be accomplished in about two months.

Airport Director Richard Heath noted that this is not part of the airport's expansion. It is being financed from federal Airport Development Aid Program funds obtained from a tax on airline tickets.

The "van pool" program will be conducted by a non-profit group known as Rides for Bay Area Commuters, which has organized similar public and private car pooling plans in the area.

Commissioners agreed to let the group provide transportation for airport employees on the basis of leased vans, daily round-trip service and fixed fees.

Members of the commission said they hope to persuade many of the thousands of workers at the airport to switch from private cars to more efficient vans.

Employees of United Airlines, largest single employer at the airport, have pioneered this effort for years, using swarms of buses and vans to get to work from as far away as Fremont.

The program also is expected to fit in with the airport's promise to various San Mateo County groups to do its utmost to reduce the impact of automobile traffic on airport access roads, as increased numbers of passengers force continued expansion.

Airport commissioners withheld action on a proposed non-expansion policy for general aviation, on the suggestion of Butler Aviation vice president Paul Bartnek that the idea needs further study.

They also withheld action on proposed allocations of space in the North Terminal, due to disagreement from some tenants over plans for cafes, a wine and cheese shop, a seafood bar and other facilities.

A resolution offering "right of first refusal" to operate a North Terminal bookstore and news shop and a gift and sundry shop to ABC Cigar Co. was approved.

Commissioners approved a number of routine contact extensions.

Just Too Many Snails

As if their troubles with the Concorde and the Communists weren't enough, the French are now worrying about something even more serious: a shortage of snails.

It has become a simple matter of supply and demand. The French can't handle the galloping desire for the tender escargot. They consume an estimated 32,000 tons of the snails all by themselves. Another 8,000 tons are exported.

But that doesn't come close to satisfying the culinary urgings of the rest of the world.

According to frenzied dispatches from France, snails are being eaten in such prodigious quantities that the slimy little creatures are becoming scarce. The demand for them in this country, for example, has doubled in five years.

But France shouldn't be so concerned. Snails are abundant all over the Peninsula, particularly after this year's rainfall. I have enough of the prized gastropods to stock every French restaurant from here to San Francisco for a month of Sundays.

My house is a haven for the beasties. We have enough snails hanging around our backyard to begin a snail ranch. We have whole herds of them, border even, armadas, fleets. As soon as the sun goes down they go on parade right there on the lawn.

They cling to leaves, to grass, to ivy, to the house. They adhere to just about anything and everything.

The snails are omnipresent. Nothing is immune to their oozing presence. You don't have to hunt for snails at our house. They find you.

Each morning as I stagger out of the house on my way to work I make certain that I tread ever so gently across the front lawn. There may be nothing more disconcerting just after dawn than to hear the dull squishing of a snail under foot.

I don't mind a healthy ration of snap, crackle and pop to start my day. But the crunch of snail shells is not my idea of a proper eye-opener.

Snails have their own unique way of letting you know where they've been the night before, too. I've found snail tracks just about anywhere — even on Ernie, our old, rather feeble Siamese cat. Ernie has become so slow in his dotage that he is loath to challenge any of the local mollusks. He just sits there on his stoop and recalls better days.

In some ways, I suppose, the snails are in the process of taking over. I've tried snail bait in the past but that merely postpones the problem for the future.

They seem to reproduce as fast as I can kill them off. Snails, as a matter of fact, possess both male and female sex organs. But it still takes two of them to tango, as it were.

Snails reach maturity in about three years. Somehow, they seem to be exceeding that time limit at our place.

In spite of this overabundance of snails, I have managed to avoid cooking any of them. That would be carrying things a bit too far.

But I'm willing to sell them to the highest bidder. Do I hear any offers?

Senior Discount Signups in D.C.

Volunteers will continue taking senior discount signups from Daly City retailers through Aug. 25.

Extension of the deadline gives volunteers more time to contact growing numbers of merchants signing to offer senior discounts and to be listed in the new Discount Directory for Daly City.

Businesses offering discounts to persons 65 and over sign a simple agreement stipulating terms of discount, a percentage or fixed amount. Under the Community Concern for Senior Citizens program, limitations to certain days or hours, or even special types of merchandise may be specified.

Discount stipulations are included with the retailer listings in the new Discount Directory now being compiled for Daly City. Participating businesses are listed in this Directory at no charge. Discount Directories will then be distributed to Seniors free, through their clubs, centers and the Daly City libraries.

Community Concern for Senior Citizens is the county-wide senior discount program sponsored by the six American Association of University Women branches. Nominal Foundation grants and a contribution from Home Savings and Loan Association cover expenses for the volunteer senior and AAUW workers.

For information on the program call Rachel Ralston, county coordinator (323-3931).

To be listed in the new Daly City Discount Directory, merchants and businesses should call the Social Services Center (992-2567).

Program in Danger of Cutback

Young, Old Truly Gain From Special Education

By TERRY DAVENPORT

Stepping into Tanforan Shopping Center was like entering outer space for a man who lives in a Burlingame nursing home. It was his first trip outside in 20 years.

Myron Gershenson recalled that the man was most impressed with the escalator. "He rode up and down several times, standing straight as a soldier," Gershenson said.

Gershenson is one of a dozen teachers who have been funding 3 1/2 years to bring nursing home residents in contact with the outside world through classes, lectures and tours.

Funding for the adult education program that paid their salaries came to an abrupt halt when Proposition 13 passed. The teachers now are waiting anxiously to hear whether the school districts that sponsored the nursing home classes will include them in their fall schedules.

"Without us, all these people have left is bingo and TV," Gershenson lamented.

But the future of the nursing home classes looks bleak.

It's up to the individual districts to decide whether the classes will be funded. The state permits each district to determine how it wants to spend state monies earmarked for education of the "substantially handicapped."

"Substantially handicapped" is defined in the state education budget as "Those who have handicaps likely to continue indefinitely or for a prolonged period and whose handicap results in substantial functional limitations in one or more of the following activities: self-care, receptive or expressive language, learning, mobility, self-direction, capacity for independent living or economic self-sufficiency."

Louis Martin, principal of Jefferson High School, said his district is leaning toward funding the classes at the same level as in the past. The classes used to be offered at two nursing homes in Pacifica and four in Daly City.

The Cabrillo Unified School District is in a state of indecision. That district sponsored three to six classes each quarter last year at a cost of about $8,000 per year.

Norman Shapiro, director of adult education for the Sequoia Union School District, said Superintendent Harry J. Reynolds has voted for continuation of the classes there. Sequoia offered 30 to 40 classes each week in 10 nursing homes.

The San Mateo Union High School District, which offered 229 hours of instruction in nursing homes each week, has not taken an official position on the courses, but Gershenson said he's been told unofficially that they will not be sponsored next year. Last year, that district's nursing home classes represented 22 percent of the total adult ed program and cost $200,000.

Although their only income comes from the unemployment office these days, Gershenson said some of the other adult ed teachers who were laid off are continuing to teach in the nursing homes on a volunteer basis.

"It's a hard habit to break. Many of them don't have any family; so, we have become their family," Mary Ruggles explained. She continued to teach crafts classes at 11 nursing homes.

She said, "It's like I have 150 grandmothers. I told them when I got engaged. Then I told them about our wedding plans. They helped make the favors for the wedding. After the wedding, I showed them the pictures. It was a wonderful experience."

Mrs. Ruggles, who first began working in nursing homes as a candy stripper volunteer at age 14, said teaching arts and crafts to the elderly "is a good way to make people realize they still have abilities."

She pointed out that the total care of a nursing home often causes residents to feel useless and to become sicker than they really are. She counts among her victories one Burlingame woman who insisted for two years that she couldn't make any of the crafts projects because her hands shook.

"Then one day she drew a picture and painted it," Mrs. Ruggles said with a proud smile.

Wayne Smith, related other breakthroughs.

The music teacher commented, "I've found that playing songs that these people knew when they were children often brings them out of their shells."

He recalled one Burlingame woman who had been in a terrible auto accident that affected her ability to speak. After sitting through many singing sessions without making a sound, the woman perked up when Smith played a song that stirred some memory in her past.

"This beautiful woman could only make animal sounds . . . and she sang along with the others. It really touched me. I had to cry," he said.

People with aphasia are supposed to have extreme difficulty communicating, but Gershenson has seen sufferers of this disease sit up in their seats and carry on animated conversations.

Bernice Bensen and Leo Bothe join Mary Ruggles in project.

He counts on his collection of 18,000 historical slides to start the stories rolling.

"I show them something out of their past and someone will say, 'I used to live on that street.' Then someone else will say, 'I didn't know you used to live on Sutter Street — so did I,'" Gershenson said.

He added, laughing, "Once I did a thing on the 1915 Panama-Pacific Exposition and I was the only one in the place who hadn't been there."

According to Gershenson, there's an expert on any subject at any nursing home gathering. He's heard in detail about the art of wrapping candy kisses, the experience of driving a Model A Ford across country and even about skinny dipping in Hawaii in the Twenties.

After short bus excursions, the oldsters return jabbering about what they've seen and done.

Smith remarked, "It's funny. They glare at each other all day and then we come and they start communicating."

All that's required, he said, is to push the right button — "then the stories come out."

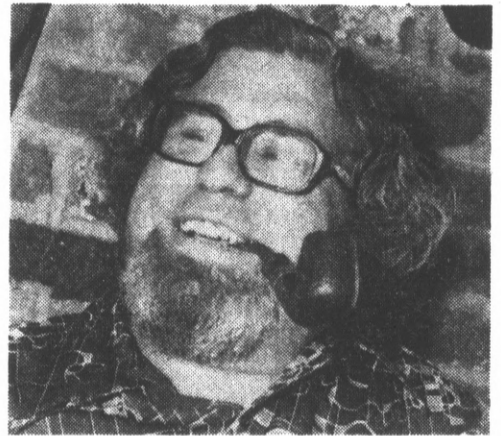

However, the three teachers agree that working in nursing homes requires great patience.

"It may look easy, but there are a lot of things you have to take into account, such as handicaps and disabilities," Mrs. Ruggles said.

She spends part of her time teaching embroidery and drawing to people who have the use of only one hand. "They hold things in their mouths," she explained.

Other nursing home residents who have trouble speaking or hearing must be shown over and over how a particular step is done.

Many people aren't cut out for this work. In fact, nursing home administrators talk of relatives who refuse to set foot inside of a nursing home because, they say, it depresses them.

Myron Gershenson

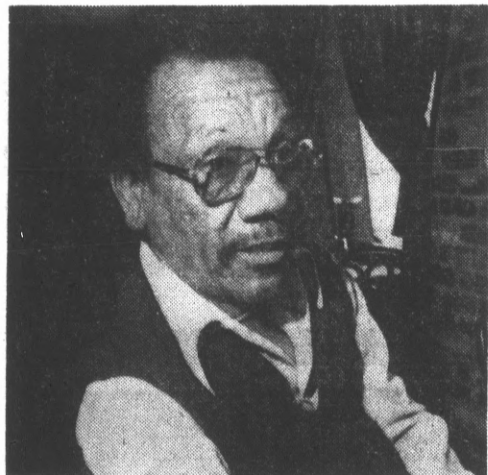

"You have to learn not to get involved," Smith explained.

"I guess I'll never learn," Mrs. Ruggles sighed.

Her approach is to go into the nursing homes with what she calls "a helping attitude." It's easy, Mrs. Ruggles said, because, "I'm addicted to these people."

Even though funding by school districts for most of these teachers is doubtful, they say they feel so necessary that they can't stop going into the nursing homes.

Gershenson noted, "We don't think the school boards are malicious, it's just that we know we are needed."

Secretary Left Without a Boss

By RICK SULLIVAN

Mary Goerss is a government secretary in search of a boss.

For the past 12 months, Mrs. Goerss, the highest paid secretary in the county Health and Welfare Department, has been suspended in a bureaucratic limbo.

As she puts it, she's been "left waiting" for the county to appoint a replacement for her former boss, Dr. George Pickett.

"I don't have any direct boss right now; I haven't for the past year," she says. "I've just been waiting for a permanent director of the department to be named so I can resume my duties."

Mrs. Goerss, though, is quick to stress that she isn't being paid $1,300 a month just to sit and wait. As one of two secretaries serving Dr. Howard Gurevitz, acting department director, she says she has been assigned certain duties that fit her classification as a "confidential county employee."

"There is work here in the director's office that concerns personnel and is of a confidential nature. It just wouldn't be right for regular staff secretaries to handle this kind of work," she adds.

Mrs. Goerss says she takes the minutes, or written records, of meetings of the director and division heads, that she processes staff recruitment letters and also arranges "tours" for the county civil grand jury.

She also performs some back-up work for Mable Parisi, a lower level secretary who is assigned full-time to Dr. Gurevitz.

Two years ago, Mrs. Goerss was appointed "administrative secretary" to Pickett, the only such position in the county's largest department. She bested several of her colleagues who vied for the open slot in both written and oral examinations.

Mrs. Goerss, however, worked only a year in that capacity. Pickett resigned in August, 1977.

Assistant Director Gurevitz, who expressed no interest in the permanent directorship, was named acting head of the department.

Believing he would serve only a short time in the acting role, Gurevitz brought with him his personal secretary, Mrs. Parisi. Mrs. Goerss was left to wait for a new permanent director.

"To terminate someone (a secretary) knowing that we would just have to rehire a person (when a department director was appointed), just doesn't make any sense," comments Gurevitz.

"Mrs. Goerss has been caught in a very unfortunate and difficult situation," he adds, noting that it could not be foreseen that appointment of a director would take so long.

Finding a permanent director has not been an easy task.

County Manager David Nichols recruited nationwide last summer, under provisions of the county charter that the director be a physician.

He found no one interested in the job that paid Pickett nearly $50,000 a year. Of the less than a dozen doctors who responded to notices advising of the open position, none had the appropriate experience to handle the job.

The manager suggested, and the Board of Supervisors agreed, that the charter should be changed to allow professional administrators, not just physicians, to fill the directorship.

Because any charter change must be authorized by the voters, the proposed revision was placed on the June ballot. The measure passed by a wide margin.

Nichols is again recruiting.

Since he has absorbed the duties of assistant director, director and to a limited degree business administrator, Gurevitz says there is a significant volume of secretarial work to be performed.

"Mary and my secretary split the work," he says.

Mrs. Goerss admits there are no guarantees that the new director will name her as his secretary. But she is confident that she will be selected since she is the only administrative secretary in the department.

And adds Gurevitz, "It will be important for the new director to have a chief clerical assistant who knows what's going on in the department."

Homeowner Exemptions

County Assessor Jack Estes reminded today that Proposition 13 has no effect on filing for homeowner exemptions.

Homeowners can reduce their property tax bills by filing an exemption claim before Dec. 1, 1978.

Eligible taxpayers include those owning and personally residing in a single-family residence, condominium, duplex, co-op apartment or mobile home, Estes said.

Insta-Tune introduces the $13,164 tune-up for

(or less)
most cars

It takes a lot of expensive equipment to tune a racing engine. About $13,164 worth, to be exact. Just imagine what that kind of equipment could do for a passenger car! One way to find out is to take your car to a nearby INSTA-TUNE center. At INSTA-TUNE, the nation's largest tune-up chain of its kind, every car is dynamometer tuned under actual driving conditions. So you get peak performance and maximum horsepower at all driving speeds. Sophisticated electronic equipment is used to analyze ignition, exhaust and carburetion so your car will deliver the best possible gas mileage. In fact your gas savings alone could more than cover the cost of an INSTA-TUNE tune-up. And, by the way, your INSTA-TUNE center will do a complete tune-up on most American or foreign cars in about 30 minutes, while you wait.

Here's what you get:

- New plugs, points and condenser
- New distributor cap, rotor and coil, if needed
- Replace faulty ignition wires and/or terminals
- Adjust points and timing
- Adjustment and chemical cleaning of carburetor

• Service PCV

• Dynamometer engine tune-up

• Infra-red performance analysis and adjustment of hydro-carbon and carbon-monoxide exhaust emissions

• Service or replace air filter

Plus you get a 6 month/6,000 mile warranty covering all installed tune-up parts and labor, good at any INSTA-TUNE center nationwide.

Engvall Lease Under Attack

The procedure by which San Bruno Park School District administrators worked out a lease for the vacant Willard R. Engvall Intermediate School prompted some heavy criticism by one trustee Thursday night.

Other trustees, however, sided with the administration, indicating they were happy to see the San Mateo Union High School District take over the school for use as a continuation high school.

Trustee Dan Pecoraro criticized administrators for not giving the board of trustees several alternatives for leasing the school, which was closed by trustees in January because of declining district enrollment.

"We were given no choice on this vote," Pecoraro said. "We were not given any alternatives for the use of Engvall."

Pecoraro said his concern about the leasing of Engvall is "the bottom line. I want to know how much money we can get into our district to use on our own programs."

There are times, Pecoraro charged, when "the complete picture isn't given to me. Maybe it's a sin of omission. But I want alternatives and prices. We should have been able to look at several alternatives, especially after Skyline College bowed out."

(Skyline, prior to the passage of Proposition 13, had indicated an interest in taking over Engvall and making it a satellite community college campus.)

"I'm addressing the manner of communication and honesty between us (the board and the staff)," the trustee added. "I've got something on my chest and it just has to come out. The only thing I can do on this is vote for it, because it is the only plan we have. I don't want to see the school vacant."

Other trustees, however, were more supportive of the administration.

"To avoid vandalism problems," said Board Chairman Chris Pallas, "we need to get someone into Engvall as soon as possible."

"With many other districts closing schools, I'm glad to see Peninsula High (the continuation school) at Engvall," added Trustee Harry Redlick.

And, said Trustee Eugene May, "We're damn fortunate to have someone in Engvall."

The San Mateo Union High School District will be charged $2,531 a month to use Engvall School, while the district also will receive $10,800 a year from Skyline College for adult school classes it will house at Engvall.

In fact, through all the various leases and rentals of schools and classroom space, the San Bruno district will receive $71,937 annually.

Gunner's Mate On Maneuver

Navy Gunner's Mate Technician Seaman Paul R. Lowder Jr., son of Paul R. and Edna L. Lowder, 81 Mar Vista Drive, Daly City, is participating in exercise "Transitex 10C-78" in the Pacific Ocean. He is assigned to the destroyer USS Higbee, homeported in Seattle.

A 1975 graduate of Thornton High School, Lowder joined the Navy in August 1975.

Cable TV to Cost More In South SF

A two-step rate increase for cable TV subscribers in South San Francisco was approved by the City Council Wednesday night.

Effective Sept. 1, rates will increase from $6.40 per month to $6.70. Additional outlet charges will increase from $1.75 to $1.80.

The second phase of the increase goes into effect when an additional five channels are added to the system, possibly early next year.

At that time, the rates will increase from $6.70 to $7.10. Additional outlet charges will increase from $1.80 to $1.90.

Western TV Cable had asked that rates be increased to $7.25 and $2 respectively.

A subcommittee of Mayor William Borba, Councilwoman Roberta Teglia and city staff members met to review the proposal and recommended the rates be increased the approved amount.

In addition to approving the increase, the City Council also accepted a new procedure for future rate increases.

In the past, the company has submitted its request to the council, a review made, a public hearing held and the rate established.

With the new procedure, Western TV Cable must give prior notice to the city that rates can be increased no more than once a year by a percentage not to exceed 75 percent of the Consumer Price Index for the period between adjustments. Council members noted the cable TV company has not had a rate increase since January, 1977 and that its rates are below the average of surrounding communities.

(FIRST OF TWO PARTS)

Gus Suhr, a Millbrae resident for more than 40 years, is one of the most underrated and least remembered of the local former big league players.

Suhr, who might best be remembered locally for his two stints with the San Francisco Seals when he was tagged "The Millbrae Merchant" (he owned a liquor store in Millbrae for years) by the late Seals' announcer, Jack McDonald, spent 11 years in the majors when being a 10 year man was a genuine mark of distinction, held the National League record for 20 years for consecutive games played, and was one of the most feared clutch hitters of his era.

But the soft-spoken Suhr remained unobtrusive during his career because he never cursed or held out or punched writers, and now, at 72 and hardly changed (he could pass for 50-55) from when this writer pestered him for autographs in 1945, he has continued his anonymity into retirement because he has the nerve to think that he's not worth interviewing, "because nobody would be interested in an old has-been."

Obviously, Suhr's modesty measures up to his attributes as an RBI man and his durability. If Suhr is a has-been, he's certainly not a never-was.

During his big league tenure, spent mostly with Pittsburgh, the smooth, steady fielding Suhr had a career batting average of .279, hit 288 doubles, 114 triples, 84 home runs, scored 914 runs, drove in 818, struck out only 433 times, and hit .333 as a pinch-hitter. In his full seasons, he averaged 90 RBI.

Giants' manager Bill Terry was so leery of Suhr with men on base that he often ordered Gus walked intentionally with runners on first and third.

"With me," says Suhr, reflecting on his talent for hitting with men on base, "the more on, the more I'd bear down. Some managers and batting instructors tell you to relax up there. But me, I got a little more determination when I saw those ducks on the pond."

Suhr, a left handed line-drive hitter, never hit an abundance of home runs during his major league career because the Pirates' Forbes Field wasn't a good home-run park. But his doubles and triples totals attest to his power and underrated speed.

When he originally was with the Seals in the '20's, however, Suhr took advantage of Old Rec, which had a 250 foot right field wall. Still, no punch-and-judy south-paw hitters could lift the ball out of Old Rec more than just occasionally, because the wall was an incredible 50 feet high.

Suhr reached his power peak in '29, when he whacked 51 round trippers, a total which became forever the Seals homerun record. Amazingly, he didn't lead the league in homers, having to settle for second place to Ike Boone from the San Francisco Missions, which shared Old Rec with the Seals. Boone hit 55, drove in 218, and led the Missions to their only Pacific Coast League pennant, beating out the second place Seals by nine games. But Suhr DID lead the league's first basemen in put-outs, assists and total chances, and scored an incredible league-leading 196 runs in his 198 games played.

When Suhr finished his career with the Seals, he played in the new Seals Stadium, which had a 395 foot right field wall some 30-40 feet high. The year after Gus retired, in 1945, the Seals installed low fenced bleachers 350 feet from the plate.

Perhaps the most amazing thing Gus did in his career was make a comeback at age 37 after being out of the game for almost two years, having retired from the Phillies in 1940. The late Seals owner, Charley Graham, called Suhr in 1943 and asked him to "play out the war years so we can keep professional baseball in San Francisco going."

Suhr, who felt he owed Graham, baseball and San Francisco something, came back to the minors for $500 a month. In 1944 he led the Coast League in doubles (36), and the "creeking" 39 year old closed out his career after the '45 season, in which he played 138 games and hit .311. It took the brilliant, 25 year old Ferris Fain, who later twice led the American League in hitting, to come out of the service and beat Suhr out.

It was appropriate that Suhr began and ended his professional baseball career in San Francisco, because he is one of those rare birds — a native born San Franciscan. He was born at Eddy and Pierce streets, raised in Hayes Valley and attended Poly High School, going to Eureka to work and play semi-pro baseball in 1924.

The Seals signed him at age 19 in 1925. He went to spring training with them that year, but by his own admission was "too green," and was sent to Quincy in the failed Three I League, where he did well enough to finish the tail-end of the PCL season with the Seals pinch-hitting.

A matured Suhr made the club the next season, "much to my sorrow, in a way," says Suhr, "because they put me at shortstop, which wasn't my dish."

Even though he had always been a first baseman, Suhr was switched when it became obvious that two other young players weren't going to cut it. And more important, the first baseman was Bert Ellison, who was also the manager.

"I started out great in a morning game at Oakland, when we used to play split doubleheaders with the Oaks, morning game in one park, afternoon in the other. I made one putout and six assists, and then in the afternoon made a putout and seven assists, and no errors all day, and some good plays."

"Even though I had no hits in that doubleheader, I thought, well, maybe I can do it. Then Los Angeles came up. Jigger Statz (the immortal Coast League center fielder) hit a high bouncer to me. Jigger could fly, so I had to get rid of the ball quick. I rushed it and threw it over Ellison's head into the stands."

"The next day, Bert put me at second, and I didn't get to first base, where I was comfortable, until 1929, when Nick Williams took over as manager."

Suhr was so comfortable that he hit those 51 homers, and the next season he was with Pittsburgh.

MARTIAL ARTS DEMONSTRATION

A demonstration team from the Lozada Academy of Self-Defense performs today at the center fountain area of Serramonte Shopping Center from 5:30 to 6 p.m. This Daly City Martial Arts organization has appeared internationally and won many awards in tournaments. Paul and Raynard Jr. Lozada, Bruce To and Andy Lee will be among those on hand demonstrating Karate, Kung Fu, "Escrima" (Philippine stick combat) and other forms of Oriental arts of self defense and body conditioning. The demonstrations are open free to the public as part of Serramonte Shopping Center's "Moonlight Night" this evening. The center is located just off Highway 280 at Serramonte Boulevard in Daly City.

My Kind of 'Town'

Golf course explorer

By Hal Gevertz

The Harbour Town Golf Links, down the coastline from Charleston, S. Car. on beautiful Hilton Head Island, arrived on the golfing scene in impressive fashion when it opened in the fall of 1969. It was heralded immediately as one of the finest courses in the country. Designed by Peter Dye, in consultation with Jack Nicklaus, this championship course rates a difficulty factor of 74.5 from the back tees.

Sports Illustrated called Harbour Town just about the best new course anyone has built in ages and Golf Digest hailed it as one of the world's 10 greatest tests of golfing skill.

IN PUTTING together the Harbour Town golf links, Dye rejected the design standards of modern golf course architecture and instead looked to the natural setting of Sea Pines Plantation to provide his intrinsic variations to the course. He utilized the all-present live oaks draped with lacy Spanish moss, tall pines, magnolias, palmettos, pampas grass and the forbidding waters of Calibogue Sound as a base of operations.

These trees stand throughout the course tormenting golfers with their encroachment on the fairways and in places where they stand in groves, the landing areas seem much smaller than they really are.

The course is not long by today's standards, measuring only 6,655 yards from the back tees, and sheer power will be of little help in finding low-scoring advantages. Skill, finesse and patience are the requirements at Harbour Town, especially when one comes up against such imaginative innovations as stones, brick and old railroad ties.

I REALLY felt secure when I let my drive find the middle of the fairway on the tree-forested 380-yard par four first hole. After scoring a bogie, I proceeded to birdie the 492-yard par 5 second and the 383-yard third hole.

Then it could have been time for me to go home as Harbour Town took advantage of my good fortune and changed my game from one of confidence to despair.

It's started with the diabolical 180-yard par 3 fourth. I saw a railroad tie-framed green jutting out into a creek that runs 180 yards from tee to green. But my golf ball didn't see it as it drowned near the left side of a shallow bunker by the back of the green. The seventh is another one-shot hole representing 167 yards of displeasure if you don't find greensville. It has a green fully contained by sand and trees except for a pittance of land in the rear to provide access.

Harbour Town has only 56 bunkers, eight of which are not on the fairway. Like the course, every bunker is completely flat and the majority of these are to the side or in the back of the greens for target purposes. The short 358-yard par four, rated number 13 in the World Atlas of Golf's Classic Courses, is an outstanding Dye strategic and inventive model of how he uses sand traps. A well-placed drive is a must as the narrow fairway is enclosed by two large oak trees 70 yards from the green.

THE GREEN is fronted by a mammoth bunker with wooded cypress planks framing the lip of the trap. If the ball lies too close to the boards, the golfer can be faced with a next to impossible shot or maybe an ax would be a better option for recovery.

The four finishing holes are in a class by themselves. The par 5 15th of 562 yards that acts like 625 is played straightaway with salt marsh to the left and troublesome trees on the right, a golfer will have to negotiate two well-struck shots favoring the right. And with the green jutting out into the marsh and a massive bunker directly in front, arrow straight accuracy will be the key that will open the door to this relatively small green.

I played Harbour Town the wrong time of the year. Besides the fairway Bermuda grass being dormant, the greens, ranging from 4,000 to 6,000 feet, were in the same process of being overseeded with rye grass. They weren't cut and I really had to stroke the putter soundly but was still short many times.

"LONG PUTTS are not a part of the game of golf," states Pete Dye. But with the excessive play generated by the nationally televised PGA Heritage Golf Classic played each year at Harbour Town, I believe he would have been better off making them a wee bit larger to give parts of the green a rest from the abundance of traffic.

Hilton Head Island is a spectacular resort community for all seasons. And Harbour Town is a golf course for almost all players. You can be sure that I will be back there one day, challenging its formidable adversities.

Adult Swimming Is Continuing

"Adults Only" swimming, sponsored by the Daly City Recreation Department, is featured each Wednesday night through August at Westmoor High School, 131 Westmoor Ave., Daly City.

Adults may swim laps in divided lanes, dive from the one-meter board, or use the Therapy Pool (temperature 110 degrees) exclusively on Wednesdays from 7:00 to 9:30 p.m.

The new adult fee is $1.25, however, old "pool passes" will be honored. The Recreation Swim schedule for all ages during August is as follows:

Days — Monday through Friday — 1-3:30 p.m.

Nights — Monday and Friday — 7-9 p.m.

Youth admission (17 years and under) is 60 cents.

San Bruno Fight Night

There will be a Fight Night at Gym West in San Bruno Saturday night, beginning at 7 p.m.

Signups for bouts will continue through Wednesday, according to Gym West owner Rocky Capella.

"We hope to have Fight Nights once a month — or at least once every other month," said Capella.

Softball Leagues Closely Bunched

After 10 weeks of league play in the Daly City Recreation Division, the leagues are still closely bunched as they go down the homestretch.

In the Big League, Mel's Coffee Shop has caught fire and downed Miller Time 11-7 and Serra Stereo 8-7. Joe Apperrott, Reid Gothardt and Jeff Orlich have been the most consistent hitters for Mel's during their winning streaks.

Green Valley defeated UP & Coming 9-7 and then lost to the Serra Stereo Sounders 9-8.

Tom McLaughlin and Marty Ross contributed clutch hits for the Sounders and Tim Dorn played great defense for the winner.

Mel's Coffee Shop ground out a 32-10 win over Gillo's Meats. Reid Gothardt had four hits and seven RBI's for Mel's. Jeff Orlich had six hits and six RBI's and Ralph Sands five hits and five RBI's for the winning Mel's team.

In the Eastern Division, Dario's defeated the Lucky Lions 14-5 as Dennis Fiscaro went 4 for 4 and Mike Hara hit his eighth homer of the year.

The Round Table Knights behind the 3 for 3 of Gary Onglad and 3 for 4 by Steve Block defeated Don Lucas Cadillac No. 1 9-6. Park Plaza Barber Shop edged J & J Plumbing 19-17.

Mike Hara had two homers as he led Dario's to a 16-3 win over Zolie's Westlake Lounge.

The Round Table Knights defeated the Downstream Trojans 9-7 as Phil Andre had 2 for 3 to lead the offense for the Knights. Don Lucas Cadillac No. 1 claimed their first victory of the season by rolling over the Trojans 13-6. It took Dario's nine innings to down the Mixed Breeds 10-6. Clutch hitting by Rich Agrimonti, Ed Lewis and another big homer by Mike Hara were the big hits for Dario's. Phil Andre went 3 for 4 as the Knights downed J & J Plumbing 11-6.

In the Western Division, L.B.Y.A. by virtue of their 6-3 and 8-7 wins over Woody's Raiders and Crown Colony ended the season in a tie for first place with the Eastsiders.

Daly City Waters ran over Daly City Ward by a final score of 5-4. The Public Trough claimed their only win of the year by downing previously undefeated L.B.Y.A. 11-10. Charlie Smithson led the Public Trough offense with three hits and five RBI's. Woody's Raiders, behind the excellent hitting of Rich Murray, Russ Woodworth and Joe Sargent, defeated the Eastsiders 7-3.

Youth Gridder Jamboree Plan

August 26 will be Jamboree Day for the Mid Peninsula Youth Football League.

According to league officials, the event will start at 11 a.m. at the Westmoor High School, Daly City, field.

Former San Francisco 49er Joe Perry will speak and Dolores Callagy of Daly City will sing the national anthem at the jamboree.

Hosts are to be the Daly City Rams and the Daly City Vikings. Both teams will open their seasons Sept. 3, against San Jose-Campbell — the Rams at 10 a.m., the Vikes at noon.

The schedules:

RAMS — Sept. 9, S.F. Bucs, at Westmoor, 11 a.m.; Sept. 17, at NYAVC-San Jose, 11 a.m.; Sept. 24, S.F. Chargers, 11 a.m.; Sept. 30, Squires at Hillsdale, 1 p.m.; Oct. 7, S.F. Spartans, at Westmoor, 11 a.m.; Oct. 14, bye; Oct. 21, Redskins at Foster City, 11 a.m.; Oct. 28, Squires, at Westmoor, 11 a.m.; Nov. 4, Redskins at Westmoor, 11 a.m.

VIKINGS — Sept. 9, S.F. Mates, at Westmoor, 1 p.m.; Sept. 17, at NYAC-San Jose, 1 p.m.; Sept. 24, S.F. Rebels, 1 p.m.; Sept. 30, bye; Oct. 7, S.F. Glads, at Westmoor, 1 p.m.; Oct. 14, Packers at Westmoor, 11 a.m.; Oct. 21, Lions, at Foster City, 1 p.m.; Oct. 28, Knights at Westmoor, 1 p.m.; Nov. 4, Bearcats, at Westmoor, 1 p.m.

Gyms Reopen

The gymnasiums at the War Memorial Community Center and the Westlake Community Center will reopen Aug. 28, during the evening hours, Director of Recreation, Parks and Maintenance Charles E. Vincent has announced.

Budget constraints, however, necessitate the operation be self-sustaining. Therefore, a fee of 50 cents per teenager or adult will be charged for each hour-and-a-half session.

The evening will be segmented into two sessions, 7-8:30 and 8:30-10 p.m. A limit of 36 persons per session has been established to insure each participant an opportunity to get full advantage of physical activity for the session.

At the close of the session ending, participants in that session will have to leave the gym and cannot participate in the second session unless the limit is not reached in the second session. Persons waiting will be given first opportunity for the second session on a first-come, first-serve basis.

Spectators will not be admitted to the gyms. This exclusion is necessary to make maximum use of the activity area and protect the participants from injury.

Sessions will be open to Daly City residents only. Presentation of valid proof of Daly City residency will be required for admittance to the gym.

Both Westlake Gym and the War Memorial Gym will be open on this basis, Monday through Friday nights, until further notice. Occasionally, the program may be subject to cancellation due to special events held in the gym. Notice of such events will be posted in the gyms.

Tourney's Last Call

The last call for the annual San Mateo Boys' Club Invitational Golf tournament has been sent out by chairman James Minto.

The tournament, scheduled for Friday at the Peninsula Golf & Country Club, will get underway at 1 p.m. following a luncheon.

Included in the array of prizes offered is a 1978 Buick Skylark, which will be awarded to anyone making a hole-in-one. The $50 entry fee includes green fee, golf cart, lunch and prizes.

All proceeds go to benefit the San Mateo Boys' Club.

Law Enforcement Agencies In Double Elimination

If the slumping Giants have got you down, you might have gotten a few baseball thrills down in Redwood City over the weekend. There, 20 softball teams representing law enforcement agencies from as far away as Sacramento played a double elimination tournament under the auspices of the Organization of Deputy Sheriffs of San Mateo County. According to the outfit's president, Sgt. Jerry Restani, the Third Annual Organization of Deputy Sheriffs Invitational Softball Tournament was a rousing success. Over the course of the weekend, about 300 people turned out to watch the games. "We do it each year to promote police relations in the community," said Restani today. Nobody went unbeaten in the long affair which wound up at about 6:30 p.m. Sunday out at Red Morton park. In the end, two teams battled for the championship, the San Francisco International Airport Police emerging victorious over the Antioch Police Department 13-11. The Sacramento Probation Department finished third. The South San Francisco Police Department and the San Mateo County Sheriffs finished fourth and fifth respectively. The Burlingame Police Department also participated.

THE DIET CORNER

So, you've decided to take the plunge back into the working life. Next month, when the kids are off to school you'll be hi-hoing off to work.

Good luck but there's more preparation to getting a job than just reading want ads. Taken a good look into the mirror lately? If not, get thee to the tell tale glass to check to see if you need to lose 10 pounds or so.

Sad, but true, the best skills in the world may go unheralded if they repose in an overweight body. Of course, no one will tell you to your face that the reason you are not hired is your weight. You may be told that the company's insurance will not permit hiring or that someone with a better resume applied five minutes ago. You'll never be sure, but 'round the country, the emerging picture is identical.

In a tight job market, positions are even tighter for the fatties.

The average amount most people need to lose is 20 pounds, and you can have a good head start if you begin now. (The average weight loss on a reducing diet is two pounds per week.) Think how great it will be to face an interviewer secure in the knowledge that your appearance is improved. You'll find that weight loss increases your energy as well, and you'd better believe me when I tell you that a working wife and mother never has enough energy! We invented the energy crisis!

On your next trip to the market, stock up on non-fat skim milk powder, bouillon cubes, fruits, vegetables, and an interesting variety of spices. Start to cook without fats; rely on spices, not butter, to spike your dishes with flavor.

Set aside some time to make up a diet dessert for winner that will keep you happy all evening. Try this recipe:

MOM'S SPICE CAKE

- 1-1/3 cups drum skim milk
- 8 slices extra thin sliced bread
- 3 eggs
- 12 packets artificial sweetener
- 2 tsps. maple flavor
- 2 tsps. imitation butter flavoring
- 2 tsps. allspice
- 2 tsps. cinnamon
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 1/2 tsp. baking soda
- 1 cup diet applesauce
- 1/4 tsp. clove

Put bread in blender to render into crumbs. Mix all dry ingredients and add beaten eggs. Fold in applesauce. Pour into teflon square 8" cake pan. Bake at 350 degrees until done.

When you take your children out before-school shopping, scout around the racks for a few back-to-work outfits for you. Buy them one size smaller than you are now wearing. The week that your children fly the nest, make an appointment to have your hair styled. Add some new make-up to the hair styling and set forth. Even if you haven't quite made it to your goal weight, you're one year way to a new future, a new figure, a new you. Not sure of what you should weigh?? Write to me and I'll be happy to tell you — give your height and body build.

Scarfs add color and interest to basic outfits. If you would like a free copy of Scarf Notes, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me at The Diet Workshop, 2533 Taraval Street, San Francisco 94116.

Issue Headed For Courts

The question of who will transport about 1,000 physically and mentally handicapped students attending special education classes in San Mateo County is headed for the courts.

The County Board of Education last month heard protests from parents and the former transporter, Servicar, who were upset that the contract for 1978-79 has been awarded to Patchetts Co.

Servicar last week filed suit against County Schools Superintendent J. Russell Kent over the issue.

Presiding Superior Court Judge Walter J. Capaccioli has scheduled Sept. 1 for a court hearing.

Sierra Books to Be Studied

Visit the High Sierras.

"Nothing can take the place of being in the Sierra Nevadas in person and seeing and feeling all that goes on there. The further back and the higher you go, the better it all becomes."

Paul Webster

For more than a hundred years visitors to California's mighty mountain chain have found a world apart from city streets and noise. Each visitor in his own way has experienced a rejuvenation that John Muir called "something to be felt, to be dreamed of, to be experienced, but not to be believed; something as unreal as a dream, an exercise of the imagination."

Catching John Muir's dream, Paul Webster wrote recently: "This is the Sierra Nevada, the snowy and sawtooth range, high in the east, low on the west, born of convulsions of earth, roughly molded by fire and ice, finely molded by time and wind and flowing water."

PAUL WEBSTER'S book about the high Sierra (Paul Webster, "The Mighty Sierra," Wethervane Books, $15), "is too big to carry in a knapsack on the trails, but a treasure to be turned to in preparation for a Sierra trip or to be referred to at home," as reviewer Francis Farquhar wrote. On opening "The Mighty Sierra," "one literally enters the High Sierra; one camps beside the high mountain meadow or on the shore of a lake and thanks to Paul Webster and the publishers for a job well done."

Beautifully by pictures and filled with information, Webster's book links the natural and human history of the mountains and fixes them in the mind of the traveler. Thus, reading it is a necessity for every visitor — even the person making a cursory trip to Yosemite or the Yuba River Country.

NELL NORTON

Good morning, good cooks.

There's nothing as good as a piping hot bowl of old fashioned homemade chili to cheer up a chilly day! Its hearty, robust beefy-tomato flavor has an all-American appeal. What a tasty dish. After all, only we lucky people who live on the foggy coast can appreciate the appeal of a warming dish in the middle of the summer.

This Chili Corn Carne is super for a crowd and easy for the busy cook to make ahead. Chunky bits of ground beef, chili and kidney beans are bathed in a spicy seasoned tomato based sauce. Bright kernels of golden whole kernel corn add color, plus a novel texture and flavor to the zesty chili.

Add mugs of milk, your favorite crackers, a bowl of fresh fruit and warm-from-the-oven gingerbread and you've a dandy quick lunch, snack or supper.

CHILI CORN CARNE

- 1 pound ground beef
- 2/3 cup chopped onion
- 1 8-oz. can tomato sauce
- 1 16-oz. can tomato paste
- 1 14-oz. can condensed beef broth
- 1 15-oz. can chili beans, undrained
- 1 15-oz. can kidney beans, drained
- 1 17-oz. can liquid pack golden whole kernel corn, drained
- 1 teaspoon chili powder
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon garlic salt
- 1/4 teaspoon oregano, crushed
- Dash of hot pepper sauce

Brown the pound of ground beef with the two-thirds cup onion; drain off fat. Stir in the 8 ounces tomato sauce, 16 ounces tomato paste and 14 ounces beef broth until smooth. Add the 15 ounces each chili beans and kidney beans, 17 ounces whole kernel corn, one teaspoon each chili powder and salt, half teaspoon garlic salt, fourth teaspoon oregano, crushed and dash of pepper sauce.

Cover and simmer 10 to 15 minutes, stirring occasionally.

Makes about 2 1/2 quarts chili.

TIP: For adventurous eaters, add a dash of cummin or cayenne for a chili with extra zing.

Samuel Chandler

"The Climber's Guide To The High Sierra," by Steve Roper (Sierra Club Books, $7.95), on the other hand, fits in your knapsack or in the glove compartment of your car to be consulted. At once it is a detailed description of the palisades and the high peaks, as well as a ready reference giving the height of mountains, the depth of valleys, the location of roads and trails, and much more information that is needed for a meaningful trip to the mighty mountains.

Within the introduction to Steve Roper's book there are lists of regulations that the hiker and climber are required to follow. There is a discussion on equipment that is, in reality, a plea for climbers to use equipment that "does it clean" and does not destroy the mountains.

ALSO WITHIN the introduction are discussions of safety measures of winter climbing, of Mobile Disco spins the latest top disco hits and Rhythm and Blue give free disco dance lessons for an hour.

Rhythm and Blue, more commonly known as Marge Gabberet and Mikel Blue, both professionally trained, have been teaching dance in the Bay Area since 1974.

Then at 10, the Latin Hustle Dance Contest begins. First prize will be two $100 gift certificates. Tickets go on sale Sept. 3 at 7:30 p.m. at the mall entrance near Oshman's Sporting Goods with proceeds going to Muscular Dystrophy.

Join the fun and help Serramonte Shopping Center help Jerry's Kids. Serramonte Shopping Center is located just off Highway 280 at Serramonte Boulevard in Daly City.

Folklore Class at Skyline

A class on the study of folklore is being offered this fall at Skyline College in San Bruno.

The course counts toward humanities requirements at Skyline and is transferrable to four-year colleges, and gives three units credit.

English 18, Focus on Folklore, examines the roots of various ethnic groups, studying their customs, beliefs, and values through oral and written folk tales. It offers students an approach to understanding of their own and other cultures that is not accessible in any other way.

The course is taught by Sylvia Gibson, who has a master's degree in folklore from Indiana University and has lived in and studied the cultures of the Midwest and the American Indian tribes of the Southwest.

English 18 will meet Wednesdays from 7-10 p.m., beginning Sept. 6.

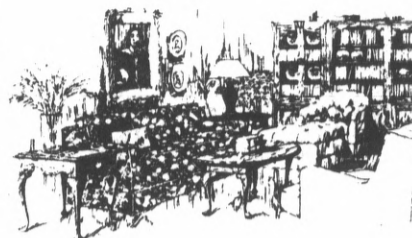

Registration can be done through the Office of Continuing Education at Skyline, through Sept. 12.

wildlife and of fires, horses, ducks, and other small matters. "The Climber's Guide to the High Sierra" is a guidebook that updates older guidebooks. It is filled with maps and pictures to increase its value.

It is summer in California, time to answer John Muir's call: "Come to these purest of terrestrial mountains. Come and receive baptism and absolution from civilized sins. You were but sprinkled last year. Come and be immersed!"

But if you answer Muir's invitation, come and heed a plea found in both "Mighty Sierra" and "The Climber's Guide To the High Sierra" to make a clean visit, thereby preserving "the natural environment in the wild part of these mountains." As Paul Webster wrote, "Our civilization will be measured by its love for the land and its sense of responsibility toward future generations."

Flying Samaritans Aid Patient Locally

Five years ago, Santiago Higuera first experienced sharp, jabbing pains along the left side of his face. Today, hundreds of miles later and thanks to the combined efforts of The Flying Samaritans, Pacific Southwest Airlines and Mary's Help Hospital, his pains are gone.

Santiago Higuera first came to Mary's Help Hospital almost two years ago when, after years of unsuccessful diagnostic efforts, he was seen by a Flying Samaritan physician associated with Mary's Help. At the small Flying Samaritan clinic in Higuera's native Cadaje in Baja California Sur, Mexico, a small town with a population of 300, the doctor recognized the symptoms of a rare chronic nerve disease, Trigeminal Neuralgia.

The Flying Samaritans is a non-profit, private charitable organization which provides medical assistance in remote areas. Volunteer doctors, nurses and other professionals visit Flying Samaritan clinics in northern California (where the patient population is made up largely of American Indians living in the Trinity Alps) and in the Mexican states of Sinaloa, Sonora and Baja California.

The Flying Samaritans also travel to other locations for consultations, emergencies and special clinics. In cases like Higuera's, they bring patients to hospitals in urban areas.

In August this year, Higuera again returned to Mary's Help Hospital because the symptoms reappeared in his face. As in 1976, Pacific Southwest Airlines provided free transportation.

Higuera's physicians believes that the probable cause for Higuera's symptom was that a blood vessel was "leaning" against nerve tissue. In Higuera's case, the physician associates the problem with his advancing age. Higuera is 60.

On Aug. 9, Higuera underwent surgery. The surgical procedure is called stereotactic gasserian ganglionectomy. Basically what happened during surgery is that a needle was placed near a nerve center which had been improperly conveying a pain sensation.

The proper placement of the needle was insured by the use of radiologic equipment and techniques. Then, for 120 seconds, the needle was heated to 85 degrees centigrade. In effect, the problem ganglion was destroyed. The patient was in the operation room for a little over an hour.

The radiologist, anesthesiologist and neurosurgeon all donated their services for Higuera's surgery.

Mary's Help Hospital has provided medical services to Flying Samaritan patients for six years. As a recipient of Hill-Burton funds, Mary's Help is required to provide charity care. However, because of the commitment by the Daughters of Charity to health, Mary's Help has always gone beyond the minimum required by legislation. In the last fiscal year, Mary's Help provided over a half million dollars in charity care.

Mary's Help Hospital, which is sponsored and operated by the Daughters of Charity of St. Vincent de Paul, is located at 1900 Sullivan Ave., Daly City.

Laguna Salada District Reorganizes Administration

The Laguna Salada School District administrative staff is being reorganized because one position has been cut.

By dividing the duties of three administrators between two, the district expects to save $20,000 a year.

School district board members gave their approval to the reorganization Thursday.

Trustees were told no one will be laid off because of the reorganization. Noah Reese, assistant superintendent for business, is retiring this month.

Lucille Foster, director of personnel services, will take over Reese's duties and will retain responsibility for classified personnel.

Marv Morganti, assistant superintendent for instructional services, will take on a new title as assistant superintendent for education. He will retain control of curriculum, as well as assume responsibility for certificated personnel.

District Superintendent James Brien said the staff was being reorganized to save money and because of Reese's retirement.

Notice

Messages concerning distribution or delivery of the North County Post should be telephoned between 8:30 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. (850-1235) or sent in writing to the North County Post, P.O. Box 248, San Bruno, CA 94066.

Nazi Uniform Debate

The August general membership meeting of the Daly City-Colma Democratic Club will be Aug. 24, at 7:30 p.m., at 101 Lincoln Ave.

A debate has been scheduled for the meeting on the topic of Senator Alan Robbins' bill (S.B. 1781) to ban the public wearing of the Nazi uniform.

Speaking on this highly controversial topic will be Davis Riemer and Stanley Lerner.

Riemer is a former president of the Earl Warren Chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union, and he is currently on the Board of Directors of the Northern California ACLU.

Lerner is an attorney from Carmichael, Calif., who has given testimony before a Senate committee considering the measure. Riemer will be speaking against the bill, Lerner in favor of it.

The format of the debate is as follows: 20 minutes for each side to make its arguments, then 15 minutes for each side to make a rebuttal, and then a period for questions from the floor.

Budget Officer Resigns

Kym Rhodes, Pacifica's budget and research officer, resigned Monday to take a job in the private sector.

"I'm going to miss her," said City Manager Al St. Cyr. "That is a critical position."

Ms. Rhodes, 23, has been with the city since last January. Her job duties included studying the best use of city funds.

She will be leaving her position Sept. 1 to take a job with Continental Insurance Co. in its management services division in San Francisco.

"It was a good opportunity to get into the private sector," Ms. Rhodes said, adding that she feels "really sad" that she is leaving Pacifica.

St. Cyr said he did not blame her for taking the job. He said she had applied for it last spring.

The city manager said he did not know when the position would be filled.

In the last year the city has had its share of resignations. Many of the city's top administrators have resigned to take similar jobs in other cities.

Right now, the positions of assistant city manager and director of community development and services are vacant. The City Council has said those vacancies will not be filled.

The superintendent of the sewer treatment plant also recently has resigned. That position, however, will be filled.

The housing coordinator for the federal Housing and Community Development program also recently resigned. That post will be filled by Karen Norton, a supervisor in the Parks, Beaches and Recreation Department. Her present position tentatively had been cut from the budget because of Proposition 13 cut backs.

Other vacancies in the city are planning administrator, associate planner, assistant planner and engineering technician.

BRIGHT LIGHTS BY LLOYD JOHNSON

Finocchio Singer Real Show Stopper

FLORENCIO de la SANTOS, the slinky singer at FINOCCHIO'S, is a sight to behold with his flawless complexion and beautiful raven black hair. This showstopper is also a member of the Finocchio EVE-ETTES, the chorus line of dancers who open and close the four shows nightly, except Mondays. "Tarentella with Tambourines" is their newest presentation. Many other performers work together to make an evening at Finocchio's one to remember for years to come. LA PINATA owner CHRIS VLASSIS says you'd be surprised how many of his Mexican restaurant visitors take home his complimentary menu, which is a miniature of the regular menu. It's a convenience to have near the phone for those food-to-go orders. When it comes to taking kitchen bows for preparing outstanding cuisine, a tip of the hat to big NICK MONTZAROS, the expert chef at VINCE'S Italian and Seafood restaurant who has been in charge of pots, pans and broiler for many years. LOUIS FRUTSCHI, owner of LAUBERGE French restaurant in Redwood City, has only slightly changed the original menu since the restaurant opened some thirteen years ago. "The fantastic contemporary jazz sounds of SOLSTIC on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. are unbelievable," said BLACK HORSE owner ERIC MAUSSER.

ROSEBUD'S ENGLISH PUB, in the heart of San Francisco's Geary Street "Theater Row," continues to attract the superstars of the entertainment world. Seen dining here the other night were Frank Ortega, musical director of the Fairmont's hit show, "4 Girls 4," along with his charming wife and Rosemarie, co-star of the show. Steve Ho, entertainer Don Ho's brother, was a recent dinner guest at SCOTTY CAMPBELL'S in Redwood City. Steve, who enjoyed the prime ribs of beef so much that he returned the following evening, invited Owner JIM SNIADOCKI to be the dinner guest of the brothers anytime he visits Hawaii. Laura Bevilacqua of Danville and Paul Meocci of Pleasanton held their wedding reception among the flowers and trees at LEHR'S GREENHOUSE garden restaurant in San Francisco last Saturday following their marriage at St. Isadore's Church in Danville. Among the 200 prominent guests attending the reception were Benjamin Swig, Murray Lehr and Phil Lehr. Credit LORRAINE, CHUCK and NICK GUST with one of the best restaurant productions, plus cocktail lounge retreats, in the business. NICK'S, THE MOONRAKER and CAPTAIN CHARLES restaurants located on the shores of Rockaway Beach have all the relaxing attractions. YOLANDA'S BOB McLANE and his chef, Jim Castro, have a great food bargain in the special family-style dinner featured all this month. Roast beef with all the trimmings for just $4 is served daily from 5 to 9 p.m.

LEE JAMES is creating the "Sunday night fever" at BAYHILL LOUNGE, San Bruno. Lee not only selects the discs most suited to the crowd's mood, but even teaches unlighted dancers a few of the disco movements. A special breakfast will be held at TILLIE'S 'LIL' FRANKFURT restaurant in Moss Beach from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Sept. 10 to benefit the Coastside Lutheran Church in Half Moon Bay. $2.50 will buy all the pancakes you can eat, sausage, and coffee. Children, $1.75. For tickets, call Tillie or contact the Lutheran church. Dinner patrons at PHIL LEHR'S Pay-By-Ounce STEAKERY, on the lower level of the San Francisco Hilton Tower, were quick to recognize veteran stage and film actor Elliott Reid feasting on a huge, cut-to-order New York steak. The KING'S TABLE in Redwood City is a great place to celebrate a birthday or anniversary. The all-you-can-eat buffet is overflowing with delectable salads and hot entrees and even a luscious dessert is included in the low price; just $2.35 for lunch, $3.55 for dinner.

There's something going on all the time at BEARDSLEY'S restaurant-lounge in downtown Burlingame. The upstairs Room is especially busy with banquets and meetings by private organizations and special activities, such as the Saturday night "Fun Night." In the main lounge, the piano bar is one of the most popular spots in town for sipping (and singing) before or after dinner. JOHN CHIANG really means it when he says "Less frills and more taste" at his GONG'S Chinese restaurant, South San Francisco. One of the nice features is that many of the items on his menu can be ordered in smaller portions at two-thirds the price. When the question "Where shall we dine tonight?" comes up, it won't take much persuasion to turn all appetites in the direction of ENRICO ROMANO'S restaurant in Rockaway Beach, Pacifica. ROMANO'S is a pizza and Italian food headquarters for countless Bay Area residents. JAVA will be performing at THE SKYLARK restaurant-lounge Friday and Saturday (Aug. 25 and 26).

There was cause for much celebration at the recent family party honoring Debbie Minty and her father, Harold Minty, on their birthdays. The occasion also served as the occasion for Minty and his wife to announce Debbie's engagement to Jeff Arlie, son of Mr. and Mrs.

Richard Arlie Sr. of South San Francisco.

The Congregational Church in San Mateo will be the setting Aug. 11, 1979 for the couple's marriage. Members of the wedding party will include Kim Moore of Redwood City, who will serve as the maid of honor, and Jerry LeHane of South San Francisco, who has been asked to perform best man duties. A Hillsdale High School graduate, the future bride has studied at the College of San Mateo for three semesters. Her affiliations include San Mateo Rainbow for Girls, No. 21, and the Order of Eastern Star, Laurel Chapter, No. 186. She and her family live in San Mateo.

Camino High School and the College of San Mateo, is a salesman for International Office Products in South San Francisco.

Jeff has a sister, Linda Derheim of Burlingame, and three brothers: Greg and Gary Arlie and Richard Arlie Jr., all of South San Francisco. Mr. and Mrs. Louis Arlie of San Francisco are his grandparents.

Debbie is the sister of Elaine Faustich, Celia Prochnow and Gail and Jim Minty, all of Redwood City; Gordon Minty of Boulder Creek; and Doug Minty of Crescent City. She is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Skousen of Redwood City.

The prospective bridegroom, who attended El

Wilson Heads Lions Eyeglass Campaign

Jerry Galindo, president of the Daly City Sky Lions Club, has appointed Del Wilson to head the Sight Conservation Committee for the 11th straight year. Wilson said that collecting discarded eyeglasses is a natural aspect of sight conservation and includes all types and parts — lenses, frames, prescription sunglasses.

"It doesn't matter what condition they are in," said Wilson. "The Lions will polish and grind them according to prescription strength."

He said discarded glasses are needed urgently. Over the past 12 years, Wilson pointed out, "Lions of District 4-C4 in California has shipped over 14 tons of eyeglasses to the Philippines and India, where they are distributed by the Lions free to those who cannot otherwise afford them."

Discarded eyeglasses can be left at Vern's Coffee Shop, 6841 Mission St., Daly City.

Promoted

Navy Aviation Machinist's Mate Third Class Nestor L. Corpuz, son of Teodoro L. Corpuz of 65 Plymouth Circle, Daly City, has been promoted to his present rank while serving with Patrol Squadron 31, at the Naval Air Station, Moffett Field.

WHOOPING IT UP

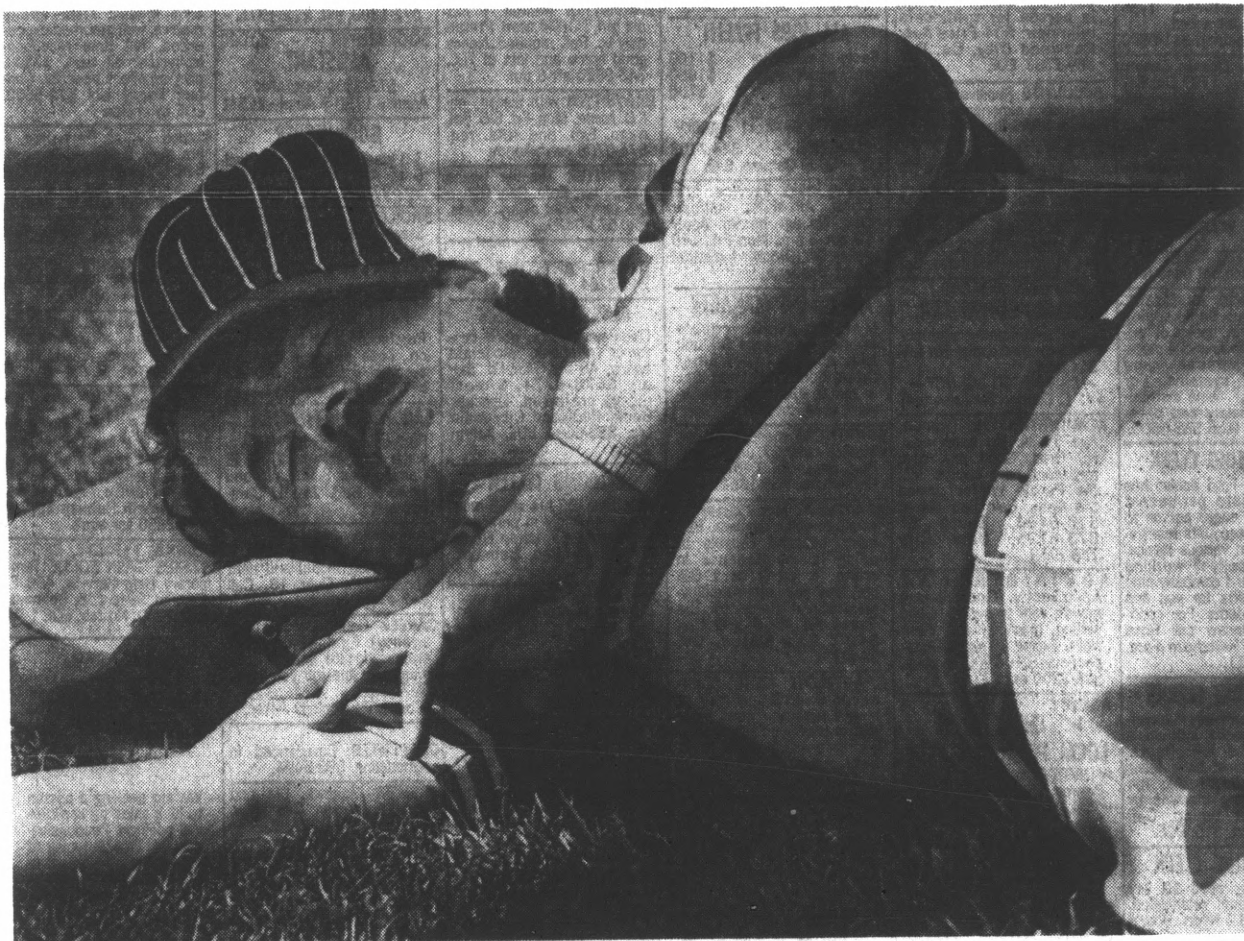

These are some of the fans in attendance at last weekend's softball tournament for law enforcement agencies in Redwood City. About 300 persons turned out to view the competition.

PARDON MY LEG

The action was sometimes fast and furious at last weekend's law enforcement softball tournament in Redwood City. Here, the catcher for the San Mateo County Sheriffs gets rammed by a baserunner from Santa Cruz. The catcher hung onto the ball. The runner was out at the plate.
